PENNELL ASKS WOMEN'S AID IN PROMOTING IDEALS IN ART

Artist Urges Feminine Sex to Educate Their Men Folk in What Is Useful as Well as Beautiful-Advocates Highways as Memorials

This delphia women are urged to educate their menfolk in higher art ideals.

Joseph Pennell, the artist, in an address at the Priends' school, Coulter street, Germantown, yesterday aftermoon, speaking to 200 members of the Women's Club of Germantown, asked for their co-operation in prevention of "a repetition of the art horrors that have followed other wars."

Mr. Pennell wants the women of this country to co-operate in a national campaign to complete the Lincoin Highway. No memorial of war or peace, he declared, is an beautiful and useful as well-constructed system of roadways. Which will lead to these and other types of memorial, such as statues, gallerles and museums and "burying grounds" were criticized by the speaker as "fidiculous and horrible ways in which to commemorate anything."

According to Mr. Pennell, Gettysburg battleground is "a place where anybody with money enough can put up a monument for the giorification of somebody that nobody heard of." The memorial building to Victor Emmanuel in Italy, he said, is "an eyesore that may please the Italians, but snocks everybody else." Civil War stautes generally were called "tin soldlers, or something like that."

"At present," said the speaker, "we have become possessed of the idea that we must put up a lot of memorials is the solders was illustrated with sides, showing the system of highways constructed by the French and Romans.

Soldiers Not Entitled to Wear Uniform Three Months, Official Ruling

The general impression that a soldier entitled to wear his uniform for three months after discharge from serv. ice has been dissipated by a ruling from the department judge advocate, who holds that officers should discard their uniforms immediately, when possible. but enlisted men have a certain feeway which to return to civilian garb.

The ruling was made at the request of the police, who have been unusually 4 lenient in dealing with slight offenders in soldier attire.

"One whose commission as an efficer "One whose commission as an officer has been terminated has no right to wear the uniform," the ruling says. "The termination of the right is coincident with the termination of the commission, strictly speaking. The moment dismissal or discharge from the service is consummated by communication of notice thereof to the officer in question that moment the right to wear a uni-m is at an end. "Reason and common sense suggest. however, and the law may be so con-strued, a reasonable time be allowed in which to change from the uniform to civilian garb. What shall constitute reasonable time must depend upon the facts in each case.

"If not able to provide himself with

"If not able to provide himself with elvilian clothes at the place of discharge or dismissal, he should be allowed to wear his uniform until he reaches his home if he proceeds to return there without delay, when one uniform should at once be removed.

There is no authority for the suggestion that the right to wear the uniform might, in certain cases, continue for a period of three months after discharge or dismissal."

ica since she was a child. Captain Astor has not been in the United States in twenty years.

Lady Astor, whose romance, for its rarity and its picturesqueness, is known the world 'round, though tired from her long voyage, looked charmingly pretty, with her goldest of gold hair and her bluest of blue eyes. At the Waldorf-Astoria she said:

"I believe all women everywhere must be very tired. Anyway, they are going to have a voice in what manner of reconstruction we are to have. The women are going to take a very real part in labor after this. They have the vote now, and they use it."

Lady Astor was Lady Nalrne-Minto, and widow of Major Lord Charles Nalrne, son of the fifth Marquis of Lansdowne, who fell on the battlefield at Messines Ridge October 27, 1914. In August, 1916, Captain Astor and Lady Violet were married in Christ Church, London.

Captain Astor is the youngest son of Baron Astor, who, before his elevation of Vincent Astor.
